

ACC Acquires Lake Management Company, Perry Lake Management

Effective March 15th, 2008 American Civil Constructors (ACC), and Perry Lake Management joined forces to more effectively serve their combined Lake Management client base in Northern California. PLM, owned by Stuart Perry, has been in business for more than 15 years in the Sacramento and Central Valley area and will become a valuable part of ACC's Northern California Lake Management team. Offering lake management consulting, maintenance, and water quality monitoring, PLM has built an outstanding reputation and a loyal customer base across Northern California. For clients of ACC and PLM, the transition will be seamless, while enhancing technical expertise and adding a depth of resources.

ACC is approaching 15 years in the aquatics business. ACC performs Lake Construction including excavation, liner installation, mechanical systems installation, planting, landscaping, hardscaping, and stocking of fish. Lake Maintenance is also performed regularly and includes water quality maintenance, vegetation control, algae control, debris removal, mechanical systems maintenance, aquatic harvesting, and chemical applications. The addition of Mr. Perry's firm allows ACC to expand its services to include Lake Management Consulting. This process is utilized in the development of both new and established lakes. This acquisition positions ACC to take advantage of the growing Northern California Lake Management market..

Stuart Perry is joining the ACC team as the Aquatic Services Manager for Northern California. Mr. Perry is a registered Pesticide Control Advisor (PCA) and holds his masters in Aquatic Biology from San Diego State University. His specialty is in writing lake management plans for the design and implementation of new lake development. As a credentialed Aquatics Biologist, not only does Mr. Perry bring years of experience and working knowledge to the ACC team, but he also brings a base of long-term clients.
